Day Academy sees boost in new students
Enrollment up as people flee stricter lockdowns

As people have left areas with restrictive COVID-19 lockdowns such as New York, Chicago and Washington, D.C., and moved to Palm Beach, Palm Beach Day Academy’s enrollment has jumped 18 percent to 472 students, compared to a year ago.

“This has been a total silver lining. It has been great for the school. We have gotten some wonderful new families from all over the country, including Palm Beach County,” Head of School Fanning Human III said.

A number of new students have come from the Northeast, New York City in particular. In a typical year, the average number of new students is 90 to 100, but this year it is approaching 150.

An estimated one-third of those new students transferred from PBDA because of the pandemic, Human said. Stephanie Filauro, director of admissions, said the calls started coming during spring break in mid-March.

“A lot of these families had their

Palm Beach Fire Rescue Chief Daniel Donato told council members Tuesday that the country is in the middle of a surge in COVID-19 cases, a “third wave” in which cases are accumulating a record high of more than 100,000 in one day.

Dive death lawsuit settled
Mollie Ghiz-Flynn died March 29 after a boat propeller cut her

Elijah Kleinberg Palm Beach Daily News

The husband of a woman killed in a March 29 diving accident off Palm Beach has settled his federal lawsuit. It alleged Dustin McCabe, who owned and operated the boat where Mollie Ghiz-Flynn, a West Palm Beach resident, was killed, didn’t have the proper permit to conduct the activity.

The lawsuit named Ghiz-Flynn’s husband, Sean Flynn, as a defendant, along with McCabe, as well as Safe Harbor North Palm Beach, the corporate parent of the marina where the dive was scheduled.

It alleged Dustin McCabe, who owned and operated the boat where Mollie Ghiz-Flynn, a West Palm Beach resident, was killed, didn’t have the proper permit to conduct the activity.

Flynn becoming entangled in the props. McCabe never obtained any summary or said if it facilitated the dive. The marina’s manager, Josh Steib, said Thursday he had no comment.

Mollie Ghiz-Flynn and her husband, Sean Flynn. Flynn's lawyer, Alex Braunstein, did say that "her heart and sympathy goes out to the family for the tragic loss." McCabe has not responded to calls. The incident occurred about 1 1⁄2 miles southeast of the Palm Beach Inlet at a popular diving spot called the Gandy Rocks. The Palm Beach Inlet is a popular diving spot for divers, and divers were sucked under, with Ghiz-Flynn becoming entangled in the props.

A Funeral Service was held Monday, November 9, at South Florida Jewish Cemetery, Lake Worth, for Mollie Ghiz-Flynn. Mollie Ghiz-Flynn, who was 37, was killed in a boating accident on March 29. She is survived by her husband, Sean Flynn, and her daughter, Millie Ghiz-Flynn. The couple had been married for about two years. Millie Ghiz-Flynn, their daughter, was born in December 2019. The family has decided not to disclose the cause of death.
